1. Game

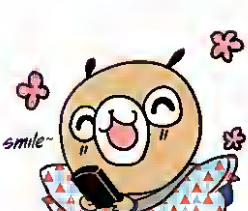
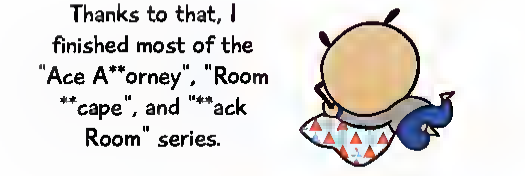
I really love mobile games.



So this person's the culprit!!
And among them, I like the detective story games the most,



Thanks to that, I finished most of the "Ace Aorney", "Room cape", and "ack Room" series.

This episode is about long ago,
when I was playing the game "Mo* Mansion's Mystery".
In the game, a boy named Antoine searches around the mansion,
in order to find his grandfather's murderer.
There is a scene where Antoine suspects that his sister Charlotte could be the murderer.
entranced
And to find out his sister's secrets,

Antoine even uses a stethoscope to access his sister's safe!!

The problem is,

that this safe cracking puzzle requires hearing in order to solve it!

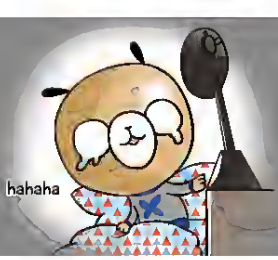
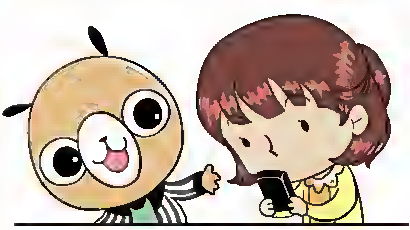
Ah, damn it.

I'll never be able to solve this.



I'll go to school tomorrow and ask my friend to solve it for me.

In the end, I had to wait 3 days,



and on Monday, I asked my friend
to solve it for me.

I'll explain for people who haven't seen Laila since the Best Challenge* days. The author herself is deaf, and these are just daily life stories of her life. The content isn't heavy because it's dealing with disability but the artstyle is cute and soft, and also has the author's humour mixed within that which lightens the mood. So if you read it, you can get views and thoughts from her perspective which can be interesting and nice to know.

"My disability is my personality, not a target of pity." is what you said before, which inspired me. Thank you for those amazing words, author!

*TN: Best Challenge is where anyone can submit their comic and may have it be chosen to become a real webcomic series on the site.
